

MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS

Management Programs are one of the foundational building blocks of a food safety management system. They are a standard set of food safety programs everyone needs as they provide the structure to deliver products that consistently satisfy customer expectations.

What if you could align your management programs with your organization's needs and still meet regulatory, customer, and certification requirements?

THIS TRAINING WILL HELP YOU:

- Understand different Management Programs and their functions.
- Identify gaps in your Management Programs.
- Ensure traceability from raw materials to finished products.
- Appropriately document and address all internal incidents and external customer complaints.
- Simplify your Management Programs.
